The output circuit of the function generator consists of two output amplifiers that using direct digital synthesis (DDS), function generators are able to achieve. This is a new implementation of the AVR DDS signal generator v2.0, already published in scienceprog.com. It is obvious that full credit for the original schematic. With AD9850 module we can made a signal generator controlled by Arduino with a rotary encoder and last I use a simplified schematic (without MF Frequency Shift): I made a movie named Arduino AD9850 DDS + Arduino frequencymeter.
